Curriculum Intent Statement

“The unexamined life is not worth living” Socrates

At Lunesdale Learning Trust in RPE we aim to:

- Provide the young people of LLT a curriculum that inspires and supports them in critically engaging with some of the most profound aspects of what it is to be a member of humanity; at a social, moral, spiritual, religious, cultural, environmental, epistemological and existential level.
- Draw on our school values, British values, the Cumbria locally agreed syllabus, the KS4 Religious Studies guidance from the DfE, curriculum content for Philosophy A Level as advised by the DfE, and our own research and understanding of our children, local religious, non-religious and spiritual adherence.
- Provide a tailor-made curriculum designed and delivered by experienced subject specialists with a pedagogical approach akin to weaving a tapestry from which the big picture emerges. Our hope is that through engaging with this ambitious curriculum, children will be able to take their place within our diverse multi-religious and multi-secular society, with a understanding of their own worldview and place in the world.
